Supply your own public light with UFO

This type of lighting causes complete illumination of the environment, which is provided by ceiling lights. The more efficient the light entering the environment, the more beautiful the interior of the house. General lighting means natural light in the room and is one of the most common types of lighting.

One of the elements that is considered in the beauty and effectiveness of interior decoration is lighting. A beautiful decoration without lighting is not attractive and all the efforts made to do it remain fruitless. To apply light in the space, its direction should be determined first, then the amount of light should be adjusted according to the dimensions of the space.

Lighting in architecture is one of the most important elements that overshadows all design elements. Light and, as a result, meeting the audience of architectural spaces is the first and most important way to enter the architect's style and context. Indoor and outdoor lighting has had different approaches and tools in different eras of human architecture. The use of natural lights and after the invention of electricity, artificial lights have presented different methods over the years.

PRODUCTS COLORING

The various and attractive colors of natural wood create a wonderful harmony in the environment, and for architecture and interior design, observing the basic combination and harmony of colors, lighting and arrangement are important points

The background of the image is an abstract architectural scene. It features a series of overlapping, curved wall sections in shades of beige, cream, and light brown. In the upper left, a dark, circular recessed light fixture is visible. The overall composition is minimalist and modern, with strong geometric lines and a soft, natural light palette.

UNIQUE DESIGN

- Modern and minimal design in studio13
- Ability to arrange by the end user and designers
